Reading Plus is Different

Other programs work only on strategies.

Reading Plus is Better

Reading Plus
changes how you
read while you are reading.

Reading Plus helps your eyes and brain work together.

It's like getting good at a sport.

What if your team
had the best coach?

What if you learned
the best strategy for winning?

You need to have the skills.

You need to have the skills.

If you do not have the skills,
you cannot play.

How do you build fundamental skills?

First, you learn to do something in the right way.

Then you need to do something to get better...

How do you get better at something?

Frequently asked questions by students and parents...

Why is my child on hold so can't access their Reading Plus activities?

Children are placed on hold to let their teacher know they are struggling with some of the content (eg/ vocabulary or comprehension) or they reading too fast or too slow, so the teacher can guide the pupils and advise them on how to improve.

How often should my child use Reading Plus at home?

Most children are set 1 vocabulary and 5 story challenges each week. At school, children have 3 x 30 minute sessions each week. This should be supplemented by at least 2 x 30 minute sessions at home or until all set activities are completed each week for maximum impact.

What if my child is already a strong reader?

Because Reading Plus uses an initial assessment to gather information about every individual child as a reader, their activities are set to challenge from their starting points, so the program supports ALL children (reading at year 3 level and above) to make more rapid progress with their reading.

How do we log on at home?

If you haven't already, all new children to Reading Plus will receive a parent letter with instructions for how to log on at home. This will include your child's individual login details.
